

EGI Marketplace

Tuesday, 10 November 2015 13:30 (2 hours)

Session dedicated to the EGI Marketplace that will present the current status and gather feedback from the community for its evolution.

The establishment of a marketplace is so researchers can discover and exchange services relevant to their research, ideally applying the one-stop-shop concept for data and services. The activity will develop the tools to facilitate the discovery and provisioning of services and data for the researchers and resource providers. This will be done in collaboration with researchers and resource providers (user-driven scenario development). The marketplace can also serve as a platform for research communities to provision or share data and services to members for the communities.
