Opportunities for EGI Service Providers through Pay-for-Use Models

Wednesday, 8 May 2019 11:50 (10 minutes)

Over the last few years, there have been various implementations of pay-for-use business models of which a handful of EGI service providers have been taking advantage. This is thanks to the work originally carried out through a pay-for-use proof of concept task force that had larger participation from a number of NGIs. The objective of this presentation is to spread awareness of the EGI pay-for-use success stories, summarize the business models that can be used and outline the opportunities for how additional providers can participate. The presentation will also include open issues and suggestions for potential solutions that we would like to explore and to garner interest such as an automated price calculator and a better system for eliciting service offers from collected requirements.
