Introduction to Service Development

Tuesday, 24 January 2012 15:45 (15 minutes)

Two more breakout sessions will be conducted to build on the previously identified services required by the user communities. The discussions will focus on how these services can and should be developed in the future. What elements should the communities fund and take responsibility for themselves and which should be developed and supported by EGI and/or the NGIs and other partners and projects? The slides from the first breakout session explain this in more detail.
